

I don't believe it is in our best interest to have cross ownership of the media. All sides of the story must be readily available and easily accessible to the public, whether it be news, entertainment or points of view.